

Bonneygrove Primary School Newsletter

28th May 2021

Breaking rules is something that I have never been a fan of, for obvious reasons, but with the success of today's rule breaks, I may have to change my mind. The school has been buzzing all week with excitement because in Monday's whole school virtual assembly I challenged the children to find and count the 'secret' rules that the staff had broken. Knowing our staff as I do, I knew that there would be many interesting and clever ones; you may have seen them along with the slightly more obvious-enjoy the photos. Also, enjoy the Bank-Holiday weekend and half-term break. The children will need to rest because we have a busy end to the year planned.

You may have seen on our Twitter page that the interviews for our Golden Threads Champions were held this week. Miss Sanders and Mrs Wilson were blown away by the number and quality of children wanting to step up and get more involved with the teaching and learning at Bonneygrove. Those we spoke to were excited about how their lessons were made more exciting and memorable by the Golden Threads. It was hard enough to choose children to interview, but even more tricky to choose between those we spoke to. However, as we discussed, our Thread of Fair Play helps children understand that doing their personal best is important and we can testify they all did that.

We have decided that alongside the class Golden Threads Champion we are also appointing a class deputy to work collaboratively to represent their classes and support their teacher in making learning at Bonneygrove sparkle.

Well done to all those appointed.

Break the Rules Day

Children broke many of our school rules today whilst remaining safe, kind and looking absolutely brilliant! A great opportunity to express and show off new styles and all in a good cause. With your generosity, our school PTA have raised over £650 today.

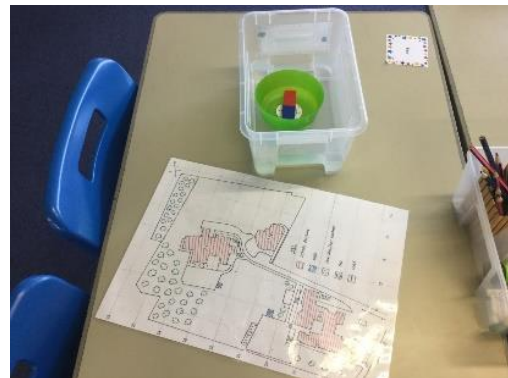

Our PTA have just helped us buy an amazing new stage for the Key Stage 1 playground, arriving Any day now, and they are currently keen to raise money for several pieces of equipment we know that the children will love. Watch this space for more details.

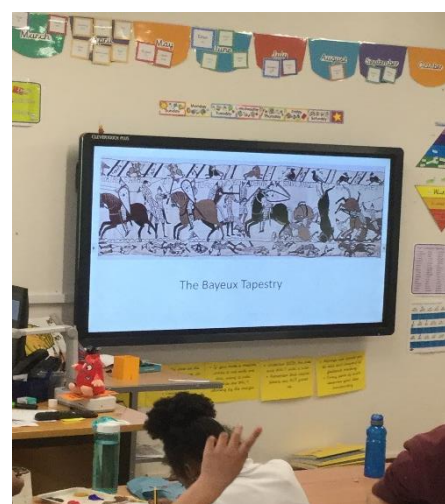

Check out some of our fantastic Science displays across our school, can you recognise what amazing topics our children have been discovering in Science?

In science, Year 3 have been learning about magnets. We made our own compass using a bar magnet. After, we listened to clues to complete a treasure hunt around the school using maps and compasses.

Year 4 have transported back to 1066. We have immersed ourselves into documenting the Battle of Hastings by painting our version of the Bayeux Tapestry. Long Live King William!
