In the story, Charlotte makes the decision to take the advice of her friend and deliberately cause damage to another child's bicycle, despite sensing it wasn't the right choice to make! How will Charlotte feel after she carries out the wrong advice and, more importantly what will she tell her mum? How will she deal with the guilt of hurting another child by her actions? Can she learn from her mistake and make things right again? This beautifully illustrated book is about helping children understand peer pressure and making right choices.
